

Build a yard office in 1:29 scale

Drawings and model by Joe Wilhelm • Reproduced from the March 1957 issue of Model Railroader

HO-scale model shown.

A yard office is an important, though unassuming, building. It is where all of the paperwork having to do with the operation of the railroad yard takes place. It is here that crew assignments are made, waybills are processed, bookkeeping is done, and railroad workers gather to catch up on the latest local news and gossip. The yard office presented here was part of the Illinois Central Railroad.
